Mr. W. Lewis Montgomery has ceased to be a resident of Cohasset, having removed on Wednesday to Uphams Corner, Dorchester, where he has taken rooms at Hotel Dorchester.

Arrivals at the Black Rock:
Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Niles, Thomas J. Homer, Fred P. Hue and wife, Boston; F. G. Peabody, John A. Terris, Chas. E. St. John, Cimberlin; Chas. F. Russell, Bedford; T. C. Williams,
Winchester; B. R. Bulkeley, Concord; H. Price Collier, Hingham.

The storm of Wednesday the 21st, was very severe in Cohasset.
The lightning entered the barn of Mr. G. T. W. Brancan on the Jerusalem road. The lightning entered by the telephone wire which connected the stable with the house, and went out by the lightning rod. One of the horses narrowly escaped being struck.

Jerusalem Road was in a dangerous condition for two or three days during the last storm. Along the sides of the road where the sewer and water pipes had been laid the ground was very treacherous, giving away under the feet of horses without any warning. One horse narrowly escaped a broken leg. The holes have been filled up and the road is again in fine order.

ALKALI.
All soaps depend upon alkali to cleanse the clothes. A perfect combination of fatty acid and alkali form soap. An excess of alkali produces a strong and sharp soap, removes dirt rapidly, and will, to a certain extent, do its requirements without boiling the clothes. Quack soaps which claim to wash clothes in an unusually short time depend upon strong alkalies to do the work. Alkali is dead to the fibres of the cloth, and by constant use of strong soaps this fact becomes apparent.

The perfect soap is McKee's GREAT LATHER SOAP, which contains exactly the proportion of alkali in perfect combination, and is therefore a perfect soap. You cannot find a trace of caustic alkali in McKee's GREAT LATHER SOAP.

Full Directions with every Cake of McKee's GREAT LATHER SOAP.

Price only 8 Cents a Cake.

GREAT LATHER SOAP

Ease, Comfort, Economy, Convenience and Dispatch Practically Combined.

A THOUSAND SOAPS IN ONE!

READ WHAT THE MANUFACTURERS CLAIM FOR IT:

Our soap is a perfectly pure article. We are not going to tell you who it contains, but we will tell you that it does not contain a single poisonous substance. We make no special claims to new discovery—that is of no interest to you; what we will tell you is what we want to know.

Now, don't let us startle you. Be prepared for seeing incredible claims.
One cake will do the weekly washing for a family of ten persons. One cake will last for six months on your washstand. One cake will last for one hundred and eighty baths. One cake will last a mile as a toilet soap, for three months, allowing that he uses it three times a day. One cake will wash every thing about your house for one week. Why is it that this soap will do so much work? We will tell you. Every atom is an active detergent. Everything it touches is of virtue, and all combine to the one grand result—a perfect soap.

If you keep a dairy, one cake of this soap will last you three months in cleaning your milk pails, churns, and so forth. There is no end to this soap, you will get tired of seeing it around before you can use it all up. Don't waste it, though, because you may think you are getting too much for your money out of one cake, and want to start on a fresh cake, the last atom of this soap is as good as the first, each particle exactly alike.

Mr. Andrew Studley will occupy Mr. Chas. Lothrop's new house on Atlantic avenue during the winter.

Mr. Albert Stebbins who has been representing telephone interests in Europe for some time, has returned home.

Mrs. Marsh Bates recently attempted to light a fire with kerosene and was terribly burned. Her recovery is considered doubtful.

All persons who have ever continually asking why the Cohasset boys never give any particular notice to the managers who pretend to find that they had actually paid all expenses, something which is rarely looked for. We believe it is the intention of the managers to give another party Thanksgiving.

The "spell of weather" which we have been having for the last week or so, was anything but pleasant. Evidently the summer residents consider it a little too much of a good thing, for they are beginning to take their departure to their city homes in large numbers. Among those who have departed are Messrs. Gorman, Inland, Joseph Davis, H. H. Gooding, Bigelow and Geo. Bullard on the Jerusalem road; James H. Boue, No. Main St.; Josh. Lovett, Winter street; Geo. Dexter, Atlantic Ave.; G. N. Talbot and Brooks, Beach Island. Each successful week will find more going and finally we shall have with us the few who make Thanksgiving the limit of their stay. Ordinarily September is one of the pleasantest months of the year to be in the country but this year it has been a succession of hot, moist, muggy days, followed by cold storms. We look to October to furnish us an agreeable change.

SCITUATE.

Mrs. F. S. Sanborn is on a visit to Quincy.

Mr. Everett Torrey is repairing his ice house.

Thanks to Rev. L. P. Causey for a basket of porter apples.

If Brown does not do the right thing in the Old Post Office who does?

Mr. Chas. T. Chubbuck who has been making some repairs on his stable.

Charlie Dorr of Marlboro, formerly of Scituate, is stopping with Wm. Bates, Esq.

No fish have been brought in for over a week, it being too rough to go out.

As an artist on boots and shoes Elisha J. Brown is hard to compete with.

A street lamp has been erected by Mr. Noah Jenkins in front of his residence on Brook St.

In all probability there will be at least twelve new houses on Second St. before another season.

Mr. Asa Vinal of Lowell, is stopping with his niece, Mrs.
Lydia B. Brown.

Owing to the unpleasant weather of late the work on the new library building has not progressed very fast.

Rev. Will C. Wood will preach next Sabbath on "Sudden Death." In the afternoon he will preach at Beachwood.

Arrived Sunday, schooner Nauset, with 1000 bushels of corn for Colman & Prouty and other merchandise.

Mr. Edward Manson of Quincy, Ill., and Mr. James Manson of East Boston, made a flying visit to town, Monday.

The price of hotel keepers, Prescott Shaw, of the Half Way House, West Scituate, made a flying visit to this place on Wednesday.

We are pleased to see our general friend Henry Elms of the firm of Chubbuck & Co., on his grocery wagon again after an absence of two months.

Good work and strict attention to business will secure success.
This is the reason Elisha J. Brown does so large a business in the Old Post Office.

Rev. N. Seaver, Jr., attended the ordination and installation of Mr. H. Price Collier as pastor of the First Parish of Hingham,

Mr. James Poole found on Mr.
S. Turner's farm, on Friday last, an "English penny." On one side is "Georgius Rex," on the other,
"Britannia 1724."

Mr. T. J. Studley announces in another column that he has opened an Undertaker's establishment at his residence in So. Scituate.

See advertisement.

On the fourth page will be found an article no doubt of great interest to the inhabitants of Scituate, especially the elder portion, from friend "Omaha."

Geo. Walbach in bringing in his new horse Fred Trott, Wednesday, got her ground on the marsh opposite Bonney's market, and was unable to get her off.

The Webster Celebration at Marshfield has been postponed from Oct. 3 to Oct. 12, owing to the inability of President Arthur to be present before that time.

We have seen large crops of squashes in California but none which comes up with that of Samuel P. Barker at the eastern part of his nine acre lot.

The road leading to Second St. will be several feet under water at the high course of tides we are now having. This must be very pleasant to pedestrians living over that way.

We understand that one of our constables, when asked to help the owner to recover some stolen articles, made answer, "I cannot leave now, for if I do I shall lose my turn to be shaved."

The yacht Glance, Capt. Morse of Boston, was found Wednesday morning dragging her anchor in the harbor, but Capt. Cushman and Capt. Morse saw her and went aboard of her and brought her in to the wharf.

We were surprised not to see a larger audience at the Methodist Church, last Sabbath evening, in response to a call for all the temperance men at the Harbor or are they asleep and need waking up?

Mr. Samuel Turner lost his best farm horse Monday night.
He was found in his stable Tuesday morning dead, but how he died is unknown, unless he was kicked by another horse back of him. This is the second horse he has lost within a few months.

The mowing season closed last week and a very prosperous season; there being more than ever gathered and better prices. It is estimated that 8000 barrels of mow have been procured by those living in Scituate, which makes at the rate paid, about $50,000 worth of mow for about five months' work.

The line storm has been upon us in earnest the past week or more. It began Wednesday last week and rained every day until Wednesday of this week, when the sun made its appearance but did not make the atmosphere any warmer; for, at the time of going to press, the cold wind is still blowing.

At the temperance meeting Sunday evening Rev. L. P. Causey had arranged passages of scripture in reference to the temperance question, which were read by different ones, with well chosen remarks after each, by the pastor. Remarks were also made by Mr. Frank. Damon and Mr.
S. A. Snow, which with singing made a very pleasant occasion.

Our streets seem almost deserted now that the summer visitors have gone; but the noise of a Sabbath evening, by increased rather than diminished. It has seemed to us that if the Selectmen would visit the Harbor about dusk of a Sabbath evening, in a body, they would think something ought to be done, as well as those who have to listen to it each week.

NORTH SCITUATE.

Joseph T. Bailey, Esq., returned Gridley J. F. Bryant, Esq., has

A public spirited citizen of No.
Scituate offers to give fifty dollars

Our people ought to keep cor-has a new regulator in his store.

It is a fine clock and keeps time splendidly.

Mrs. E. D. Winch of Welleley is visiting her brother A. P.
Smith and her sister Mrs. S. L.
Smith and other relations in North Scituate.

Frank Studley's dog last Friday bit a child belonging to Albert Damon and one from Cohas-set. He was immediately killed by his owner.

Rev. H. M. Dean of Hingham supplied the pulpit of the Baptist church, last Sabbath and Rev. Mr.
Smith of Woodstock, Conn., will preach next Sabbath.

The summer visitors will soon part of their homes. Mr. Chas.
Phillips will return Sept. 29, Mr.
Henry Wood, Oct. 16, Dr. J. G.
Graves and Dr. J. F. Ely, Oct.
17, Mr. W. J. McPherson, Oct.
18.

RESOLUTIONS.
The following resolutions were passed by the First Baptist Church, North Scituate, Sept. 24, 1882.

Whereas our beloved pastor has felt called upon to sever his relations with this church, and enter upon a more inviting and extended field of labor, therefore

Resolved, that we accept his resignation, though with feelings of regret, and that we hereby as a church, tender him our heartfelt sympathy and pray ers, in his new field of labor, and also commend him to a good pastor, and a sound and practical preacher of the truth as it is in Jesus.

Enforce the Law.

Mr. Editor.
Some time since a petition was presented to the selectmen for signatures requesting the selectmen to enforce the liquor law. The selectmen then heeded the request of the petioners and two parties were convicted and fined, while a third skipped the town. Why wouldn't such a petition be well for Scituate and see if some of the drunkenness at the Harbor cannot be stopped.

CITIZEN.

The Breakwater at Scituate.

The contract has now been made for the stone and labor necessary for the completion of the first breakwater at Scituate harbor, which is intended to be finished during the present season, by virtue of the appropriation made at the last session of Congress.
To carry out the entire plan for the improvement of the harbor larger appropriations and the labor of several years will be required. Should Congress grant adequate means, as needed, a few years only will be necessary, in order to make this proposed harbor one of the most useful as it is one of the most essential in the saving of life and property upon the whole coast of the United States. An exceedingly interesting article upon Plymouth, England, appears in the illustrated London News of August 19 ult., which says—

The breakwater directly fronting the town of Plymouth is three thousand feet long in the centre, with an arm one thousand feet long at each end.
It is built of huge limestone blocks, the upper part being faced and paved with granite, and has a lighthouse at the west end and an ironclad fort in the centre. The construction of this great bulwark against the sea was begun in 1841 and finished in 1847, and is a work scarcely less creditable than those of Portland, Dover and Holyhead, performed with the superior engineering appliances of a late time.

The work now in progress at Scituate is of much less extensive character and of far inferior cost. The object at Plymouth, England, is to break the force of the sea near the entrance to its spacious harbor. That at Scituate is to deepen the harbor and the approach to it, so that vessels of moderate tonnage can find safety there in storms, where now there is no suitable place of refuge for them, so an extremely dangerous coast of fifty miles between Boston and Cape Cod. There are to be two breakwaters, one 800 ft. long, the other 750, to exclude the salt after the harbor is excavated—Boston Advertiser.

Who Owns Them.

Mr. Editor.
How SHALL OUR BEAUTIFUL BEACHES BE SAVED FOR THE PUBLIC?

My attention was lately called to a matter of much public interest, that is, the beaches in the vicinity of Boston.

The public have for many years treated these as if they had the right to pass and repass upon them as they pleased, and I think it fair to suppose that this right has been established by "ancient usage."

The three principal ones are Nantuxet, Revere and Lynn beaches. It seems very important that these should be retained for the unrestricted use of the public. All of them have been of late years more or less obstructed by buildings, such as bath houses, wharves, etc., but the most serious one yet made is at the upper end of Revere beach at the Point of Pines.
Here the chance stroller, who has run down to get out of the heat of the city is met by an official of the company owning the adjacent property, and is expected to pay for a ticket of admission, although he may not wish to visit the beer garden on the shore; the park is attempted to be shut off from the public is a little account, but a more serious extension of the line of the company is in prospect, so I think that it owns the property as far down as the Revere House, and an extension of fences and their gray backed guard is in prospect to that point, taking in nearly one half the beach. If the public have no legal rights of access, and use to pass and repass, as I think they have, it is full time their attention was called to it and the right established.

There are two ways to accomplish this. First, and most simple, the town of city in which the beaches are can lay out a town way their full length second, a strip of land, of sufficient width above high water mark, can be taken as a public park. If the town has not the power to take the latter course, it should take the first and then at once apply to the Legislature for the second.

[As we understand it, all deeds of Revere and other beach property in Massachusetts give the right of access ship to high water mark. Below that mark is public property, and anybody can travel thereon. Above the mark is private ground. This seems to afford a partial solution, but our correspondent's ideas deserve attention.]
